Discoverer of Yellow Fever Mos quito to Be Honored by Virginia University Alumni.

an ornamental pediment and a stoneflagged pavement in front. Into the two pillars at the end of the plinth could be inserted bronze tablets, on which could be engraved the story of Reed's life. Surmounting the back, or in some other place which the artist might choose, there could be a bust of Benefited Nations May Contribute. Each nation which has been directly benefited by Maj. Reed's work, it is a block of stone, from which the memorial would be built. "The most of publics, the nations of the Mediterranean basin and of the Indian ocean, as which is to start at 10 o'clock, will be well as of our own country," it is said, when it is declared "perhaps if Paul dedication ceremonies.
